DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of claims 1-11 in the reply filed on 8/31/2005 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-3 and 5-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kikuchi et al (US 5,226,056).

Re claim 1: Kikuchi et al teaches a plasma ashing method and apparatus wherein a first load platform 16 and a second load platform 51 are provided.

The first load platform 16 is mounted on element 15 which is located outside of the second platform, see Fig.16.

Re claim 2 and 3: Fig. 15 illustrates the first load platform is higher and is located above the second load platform.

Art Unit: 1763

Re claims 5 and 6: Fig. 18 illustrates a plurality (three are illustrated) of pins.

Re claim 7: Col. 13 line 17 cites that the pins are made of quartz.

Re claim 8,9, and 11: Element 51 is a heating means, inherently comprising a heating source and is a susceptor, see abstract and col. 8 line 50.

Re claim 10: This claim is a matter of an intended use as an apparatus is what it is and the apparatus of Kikuchi et al is inherently depositing epitaxial silicon.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kikuchi et al.

The teachings of Kikuchi et al were discussed above.

Kikuchi et al fails to teach the distance between the two platforms.

Kikuchi et al does teach that they are at distance to ensure front and back face processing, see col. 9 lines 1-11. According to In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device.

Art Unit: 1763

Thus, it would have been obvious that the distance between the first and second load platforms are at least 10mm such that this distance is the optimal distance for front/backside processing of the wafer.
